We are, Simon & Zoe and live in the East Midlands. I have had recurring lower back problem, so getting the right job wasn't easy. We mustered on, living from one benefit payment to the next. The hardest time was Christmas, expecting a benefit payment 4 days before Christmas day which didn't turn up!! We had put an advert in the local paper to sell our spare fridge freezer and, luckily, someone came to buy it for £120, we had said we didn't want another Christmas like that one.

We changed benefit to ESA (employment support allowance) as my back pain had flared up again. Fed up with not knowing from one week to the next when a payment was coming,. I had worked for Kleeneze some years ago, just as an extra income. We made a phone call and within days we had a phone call from Jack Kirby, our sponsor. We borrowed the initial outlay and signed up there and then, and awaited our first lot of catalogues.

Our feet haven't touched the ground since. We put in 100% effort from the beginning and our reward was a cheque for £280 for our 1st full 4 week period and a 10% bonus and we were able to pay back what we had borrowed within 4 weeks of trading. We are now at the end of our 2nd 4 week period and got a 13% bonus. This business proves that you don't have to be the fittest and you may have off days, but the rewards for your effort are always there and support is only at the end of a phone.
